Follow Up

BOA went logistically quite smoothly. There was a little lack of clarity about chaperone responsibilities in the middle part of the day so we are going to go over the FBA schedule with a chaperone focus tonight.

The Classic went well, despite the dead pelicans and malfunctioning payment systems. We earned $16,823.42 against total hosting expenses of $6,320.67 for a net of $10,502.76.

Classic follow-up... what can we do better?

- Start planning during January
- Water station upgrade... logistics and resupply
- Define footpaths more clearly
- Cutoff date for vendor list and make sure list is shared with all volunteers
- Limit capacity of concessions stand to people who are actually working (don't let kids hang out)
- Ambassador meeting needs to be at least a week before the show
- If we fix a golf cart can we have it?
- Double check A/C in the field house (building number)

RunDisney chaperones have been selected based on the total number of volunteered events. This was the only objective way to do it. We have already been contacted by Disney about another marathon in the future, and so there may be additional opportunities next semester.

Weekend Schedule was reviewed.
